Born in Wisconsin at a young age, Mason spent his whole life enjoying dairy, because that's what people in Wisconsin do... Just kidding, he actually doesn't like cheese that much. Mason is a music fanatic who discovered great radio at the age of 10, which led to him DJing weddings and various events for the largest entertainment company in the state. He landed his first job in radio at a Top 40 station in Appleton, WI after the Program Director discovered some podcasts and funny skits he posted online.

At age 16, Mason created his own internet Top 40 station where he developed multiple skills from music programming, social media and web design to actually hosting a live 5-hour show every Sunday night. Thousands of listeners from around the world were tuning in, leading to artist interviews and a monthly paycheck from advertisers. The channel ran 24/7 for nearly three years, all from his bedroom. Mason always believed that radio would only survive in the 21st century with live, interactive, content-driven excitement which most radio stations and streaming services don't offer.

Mason's life changed when he moved to Massachusetts in January 2020 to advance his career in radio, though it was the worst possible timing with COVID-19 shutting down much of America. This was the perfect opportunity to begin a live radio show from home, with a host who's entertaining, funny, classy and smart! Unfortunately, the original host moved to Guam, and Mason was hired instead... hopefully he doesn't disappoint.
